

ELECT SENATOR
FOR NEW YORKJames A. O'Gorman Chosen to Succeed Chauncey M. Depew.

SELECTION IS A COMPROMISE

Supreme Court Justice Gets Toga
Through Power of Charles F. Murphy and Francis Lynde Stetson, Insurgent Leader.

Albany, N. Y., April 1.—James A. O'Gorman, a supreme court justice for New York county, was elected the Democratic United States senator in place of Chauncey M. Depew. Senator O'Gorman received 112 votes while Mr. Depew received 80; necessary to choice, 97.

The nomination and election of O'Gorman was brought about by the power of Charles F. Murphy and Francis Lynde Stetson. Senator O'Gorman could not have been nominated or elected without the insurgent vote which was largely controlled by Mr. Stetson, nor could he have been nominated or elected without the vote which was largely controlled by Charles F. Murphy.

Two weeks ago Mr. Stetson made it known to his friends that O'Gorman would be perfectly satisfactory to him and his friends as the compromise candidate for United States senator. Mr. Murphy on Tuesday first took up the consideration of O'Gorman's name.

James Aloysius O'Gorman was born in New York city and it was there that he took his first lessons in politics. The boy went to the College of the City of New York and to the New York university law school, where he received his LL. B. in 1882, when he was twenty-two years old.

He had interested himself in the politics of his district while he was still a student. When he had barely reached his majority, he was chairman of the Tammany committee in the election district of the old Seventeenth assembly district where he lived.

He was admitted to the bar in the same year with his graduation from the law school of New York university. His law practice went hand in hand with his work in politics. In 1893, partly through the influence of Richard Croker, he was made justice of the district court of New York. He held this position until 1900 when he was made supreme court justice.

It was while he was a justice of the supreme court that he was elected Grand Sachem of Tammany hall. He succeeded Lewis Nixon. Justice O'Gorman remained Grand Sachem of Tammany until the fall of 1905. Then he resigned, and in December W. Bourke Cockran was chosen as his successor.

He was married when he was twenty-three years old to Anne M. Leslie of New York. They have seven daughters and four sons. Justice O'Gorman will be fifty-one years old May 5 next.

OLD TIMES PARTY

A GRAND SUCCESS

The old times party given at the Masonic Temple Friday night under the auspices of Phoenix lodge was a success as was shown by the large attendance present. There were fully 100 couples and the spirit of the times many years ago was certainly revived in the old fashioned Virginia Reel, Lancers, Polkas, Schottisches and other round dances in which both old and young joined with a hearty and keen appreciation. The Ladies of the Eastern Star served a light lunch at midnight. As this party proved such a success it has been decided by the committee that another similar party shall be given at the Temple on Friday evening, April 14.

BIG CARNIVAL GIVEN

HERE IN MAY UNDER
MASONIC AUSPICES

The entertainment committee of Phoenix lodge has signed a contract with the Parkott Amusement company of Macon, Ga., for a week's carnival to be held in this city the week of May 27. Just where the carnival will be held has not been definitely decided upon but in all probability will be held on Rhinehart's field within a block of the business section.

This company consisting of 300 people carries 15 complete shows exceedingly varied in character and of the best of their kind. Each show is a show in itself. The train of 18 coaches carrying the company and equipment will arrive in this city the fourth week in May which is to be set aside as a big gala week.

STARTED WHEN SERIES OF SHIFTS IS ORDERED

Washington, April 1.—Postmaster General Hitchcock has ordered a sweeping shift in the railway mail service. Several of the most important officers in the service, including the general superintendent, are demoted. This drastic action was taken by the postmaster general because he believed that his subordinates had failed to co-operate with him in his economy plans and in orders for the improvement of the service.

Alexander Grant, the general superintendent of the service, is sent from Washington to St. Paul as the superintendent of a division. The place of general superintendent will be filled by Theodore Ingalls, who up to this time has been superintendent of the division of rural mails. George C. Thomson, now inspector in charge at Austin, Tex., will succeed Mr. Ingalls as superintendent of the division of rural mails. Charles B. Anderson, inspector in charge at St. Louis, has been shifted to Austin, and Postoffice Inspector George Daniel of the New York division goes to St. Louis.

Besides the general superintendent of the railway mail service, the superintendent of the Washington division of the service, Charles W. Vickery, also is demoted, becoming chief clerk of the railway mail service in the Cincinnati division. Norman Perkins, railway mail superintendent at St. Paul, has been promoted to the superintendency left vacant by the transfer of Mr. Vickery.

Charles Rager, superintendent of the Cincinnati division of the railway mail service, has been sent to Atlanta to serve as chief clerk in place of John F. Blodgett, who is removed. Clyde M. Reed, division superintendent at Cleveland, takes Rager's place as superintendent of the Cincinnati division and John C. Koons, postoffice inspector in the Washington division, is promoted to be superintendent of the railway mail service at Cleveland.

CHELSEA MAN DECLARES
SLAUGHTER HOUSE A
NUISANCE—ASKS DAMAGES

Hubert Schweckerach of Chelsea has commenced suit Against Adam-Eppler for $3,000 damages, which he claims because Eppler had a slaughter house next to his residence. He claims that this gives rise to divers noxious and offensive smells and stenches which arise from the blood, garbage, offal, bones, manure and inwards and divers loud and offensive sounds and noises arising from the bleating, grunting, squealing and lowing of sheep, hogs, cows, oxen and calves kept on the premises. Cole & Fahrner represent Mr. Schweckerach.

FIRST FORMAL
TREATY IS HELD

Washington, April 1.—The first formal conference for the negotiation of a general arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain was held at the state department by Secretary Knox and James Bryce.

Secretary Knox and Mr. Bryce spent more than an hour discussing the details of the proposed convention. While President Taft and Mr. Knox hope to complete the convention in time to submit it to the senate for ratification at the special session, it is admitted that the task is difficult because of the fact that the proposed convention will be the first of its kind ever negotiated. It will provide for the arbitration of every future dispute between the two governments and will supersede the present arbitration treaty, which covers all questions excepting the national honor, the vital interests and the rights of a third party.

There are reports here that the Anglo-Japanese alliance would interfere with the negotiations of the proposed convention, but these rumors were denied by both officers of the state department and of the British embassy. The Anglo-Japanese convention, it was explained, related especially to the orient and had no bearing on the proposed convention.

ANSWERS OF ALDERMEN AND CANDIDATES TO QUESTIONS PUT BY THE PRESS, SHOW VARIETY OF OPINIONS

The Ypsilanti Daily Press has found in interviewing many prominent citizens in Ypsilanti that the more conservative and enlightened citizens are of the opinion that a matter of such weighty importance as renewing a gas franchise for thirty years, should be submitted to the citizens to decide, that the decision should be the expressed will of the people and should come after thorough investigation and enlightenment.

Why, since the present franchise has yet three years to run, is the gas company so importunate in its insistence that it shall be considered now? It is because they are contemplating its sale according to report, to the Eastern Edison company, or some other company, to whom it would be of immeasurable value if backed with a thirty-year franchise and scarcely worth considering if it could show but three years yet to run? Or is it because people everywhere are progressing steadily, irresistibly toward a clearer understanding of municipal questions and, instructed on all sides by the experience of sister cities which have found municipal ownership of public utilities profitable, are yearly more disinclined to permit a private corporation to monopolize what should flow into the city coffers, and hence back to the people?

Granted that municipal ownership of the gas plant is desirable, is it feasible? Is it possible? As to feasibility—the city ownership of the water works and the lighting plant has been without question a complete success, working to the satisfaction of every one and constitutes perhaps the wisest measure ever adopted by the city. Who can doubt that the gas plant would not be equally well managed and equally profitable to Ypsilanti? As to the possibilities of the case—there has never been a time, it is said, when the city was in such excellent condition for assuming a financial responsibility as now. The civic administration in the immediate past has been economical. There is a surplus—a large surplus—in the city treasury. Indeed, the amount spread on the last tax-rolls was really larger than required. The tax rate is lower than in most cities and in three years, or by the date of the expiration of the present gas franchise, the city, if it assumes the purchase of the plant, will have gradually, comfortably, met its obligations.

At present the gas stock is largely owned by Ann Arbor and Detroit people. Why should not Ypsilanti reap the profits of the gas charges and the valuable by-products? It is said that the by-products from a ton of coal are 1,300 pounds of coke and eight gallons of tar, besides a quantity of ammonia.

A reading of the proposed franchise will show that it is not in its terms nearly so advantageous to the city as the present one. The gas would be carried only to the lot line hereafter and put into the house from that point at the expense of the property-owner, whereas at present the company puts the gas connections into the meter. As the more well-to-do residents already have gas, the burden of this clause will fall upon the poorer people, or upon new people moving into town and getting their first impressions of Ypsilanti. In the interests too of the streets which are not paved, why is there not a clause inserted to provide for these streets being left in good condition after being torn up to put in gas connections? This is but another of the very many features the question presents and which should be subjected to the most searching investigation before being passed upon. This question is perhaps the weightiest which has presented itself to Ypsilanti citizenship for fifty years.

The present gas rate is conceded to be very high compared with what other cities pay. The content of a certain section would seem to indicate that there is no small prospect of a still higher rate. If the gas company is to be able to advance its rates 8 per cent whenever unskilled labor advances 20 per cent, it would be no loss, but on the contrary a tremendous gain, to the company if it advanced labor 20%—when probably under twenty men are involved—in order to raise 8 per cent on a rate which applies throughout the entire town. An increase of 20 per cent in the price of coal could likewise be faced with perfect equanimity by the gas company when to that circumstance is attached the privilege of advancing gas 6 per cent all over the city.

The acting aldermen and candidates as well have been interviewed so far as possible for statements with regard to their attitude on the franchise question. Several statements follow:

Present Councilmen.

Mayor Towner: "I am in favor of renewing the franchise on the best terms possible."

E. R. Beal: "I am not in favor of giving any franchise at present—not until the matter has been investigated. I would not favor a thirty-year franchise under any circumstances. I consider the use of the streets by the gas company a valuable asset of the city, which should not be given up without due consideration. I think the Common Council should secure an estimate of the value of the plant and the profits of the business by a competent expert and final action on the matter should be taken by a vote of the people."

Frank Norton: "I am not in favor of renewing the gas company's franchise. As far as I am concerned, I think the city should own the plant."

E. A. Mellencamp: "I feel this matter ought to be considered more thoroughly. I feel that their franchise as presented now is too loosely gotten up. It does not protect the city. I would want it modified before I favored it. The city should be first, last and all."

Frank Whitman: "I do not believe in being hasty. We have got three years yet to consider it, as the present franchise has three years yet to run."

At the council meeting held March 7, the matter of renewing the franchise was referred to the committee on ordinances. These are J. R. Thomas, J. E. Moore and John Worden. This circumstance invests their opinions with peculiar interest, as it is understood that they have already practically recommended that the franchise should be accepted as modified by them. These opinions are as follows:

Jay E. Moore: "I am not in shape to say. I have not formed any conclusion as yet."

John Worden: "I have not really made up my mind yet. I think the franchise is all right as it stands."

Mr. Worden, it might be observed in passing, has wanted gas put in his house for a long time but is something over 600 feet, possibly, from the end of the gas mains. It is alleged that if the gas franchise goes through he will be shown a way to get the gas to his house.

J. R. Thomas: "I am not in position to say."

Candidates for Election, Monday.

E. C. Cornwell (R), First Ward: "I hesitate to say, as I have not seen any figures regarding it. If it would be profitable to the city to own the gas plant, I would probably be in favor of it. I should want figures from reliable sources to judge from, and I should want to know what the results of the city owning its own plant had been in cities that had tried it. I am not prejudiced in the matter and would like to hear arguments from both sides."

H. M. Frain (D) First Ward: "As a taxpayer and business man and one who is deeply interested in the city's welfare, I think the city should own the gas plant. The water works has been a paying proposition and also the lighting plant. In case the gas company wanted to sell to another company the thirty-year franchise would be of value to it. But never in my acquaintance with the city has it been in such good shape to tackle a proposition of this kind as now."

John Stevens (R) Second Ward: "Personally, I would think the people would better vote on the question of renewing the franchise—the people who pay the taxes—and see if they want to spend their money so or not."

Eugene Bartlett (P) Second Ward: "I have not been in the city long enough to understand the matter. I have not heard of this before. I would have to consider it and know more about it before I passed on it. I would want to know all the particulars."

Melvin Lewis (R) Third Ward: "I think the proper way is to let the people vote on it and not leave it to the aldermen."

F. M. Beall (P) Third Ward: "I have not given the matter a thought, but I do not believe in those franchises. I do not believe in a monopoly of the gas business. If the rate were reasonable, I would favor a private corporation owning the gas plant. I have no objection to a private corporation but would not wish it to be (Continued on Page 4)

A TEXTBOOK FOR THE SPRING
ELECTION-AND A TEXT OR TWO

We invite our readers' attention to the report of the detectives made in June before the riot, to get a glimpse of the wholesome sort of atmosphere which the saloons and gambling houses encourage about themselves.

"Against these horrible conditions the respectable people of the county and city soon began to revolt. They organized a Law and Order League.

"But when they tried to enforce the law, they discovered that there was absolutely no machinery in the city or county with which to enforce it. The only official in the county who was with them was Judge Seward of the Court of Common Pleas, but they were unable to get cases before him which in any way hindered the activities of the lawbreakers.

"Not having succeeded in stopping the lawlessness by any local means, they decided to secure help from without. Co-operating with the Anti-Saloon League, twenty-three men under the direction of a Cleveland secret service bureau were therefore brought to the city, sworn in as deputies by Mayor Barnes, of Granville, a neighboring town, and on the morning of July 8th three of the unlawful saloons were raided.

"But no twenty-three men could now cope with the wild spirit of lawlessness which had gripped the city. Riot followed, the officers were driven out by the lawbreakers, and one saloonkeeper, Howard, was killed. That night the mob hanged poor young Etherington, a mere boy, the only one of the officers who failed to escape the fury of the mob. 'Tell my mother,' he said, as they dragged him through the streets, 'that I died trying to do my duty.' The almost insane spirit of lawlessness of the mob was further illustrated by the attempt of some of the leaders to drag Etherington down to the home of Judge Seward, and lynch him in the very presence of the highest dignitary of the law in Licking County.

"This is what the lawless saloon did for Newark: overturned law, and so overturned it that the State of Ohio had to appear forcibly in the person of Governor Harmon, who compelled the unspeakable mayor and sheriff of Newark to resign. Then the usual grand jury was called, for the town had begun to awaken.

"It finds that the city police made not the slightest attempt to stop the riot at any stage. Of the chief of police it says: 'While the iron doors of the jail were being beaten down and while the man, Etherington, was being taken from the jail and hanged at the corner of the courthouse square, this man, wearing the uniform of chief of police, was then at a near-by grocery and saloon, in company with others, engaged in a social game of cards.

"The grand jury returned fifty-eight indictments, twenty-five for murder in the first degree, twenty-one for riot, ten for assault and battery and two for perjury. Two of the men arrested for complicity in the lynching have just been tried and sentenced to long terms in the penitentiary for manslaughter. One was a negro, charged with making an incendiary speech, the other was a former barkeeper. The other trials are being pushed to conclusion. Not a few of these younger men will undoubtedly have to serve many years in prison and come out broken wrecks of men."

In order that we citizens may keep clearly in mind, not only the finished product of the saloons, the old toper, who has transferred his earnings and his property to the till of the saloon-keeper, but the new crop of appetites which must be created and the new crop of old toppers which must be journeying along throughout the entire course from the first drink to the last, here is an illustration:

"I went to the county jail, where all the men who had been caught were locked up. It was one of the most tragic sights I ever saw in my life. I had expected to find a group of hard-looking rowdies. Instead of that, most of the prisoners were scarcely more than boys—'just town boys,' the sheriff said. One, charged with first-degree murder, was only seventeen years old. Most of them had been educated right there in the public schools of Newark and had grown up there—ripe products of the Newark system.

"What a farce it all is! Spend thousands yearly in schools, boast about enlightenment, and turn boys and girls loose for amusement in a town infested with eighty saloons and thirty or forty houses of prostitution! 'When I saw those boys, I thought to myself that they were as truly the victims of the civic and moral indifference of Newark as was young Etherington last July. What earthly chance had they? A little smattering of learning in the school and this sort of immoral teaching in the greater school of life! What conclusion could they draw when they saw the chosen representatives of the people—the mayor, the sheriff, the police—all siding with and helping the lawbreakers? 'Would they not form the conclusion, on excellent evidence, that the law was a joke, and that law-abiding citizens were fools?

"Were these boys, then, to blame? Or was the town to blame: the business men who supported the lawless saloons and helped elect the lawless mayors; the preachers who winked at it all; the manufacturers who placed profits above humanity—were not these to blame?

"But it is futile now, save as it may help other towns where this same sort of a struggle is going on, to try to distribute blame or praise. They have had for years in Newark two or three more or less moribund associations of citizens organized to 'boost' the town, but the main incentive in Newark, as in many cities, was purely materialistic—to get in more factories, to get in more people, to make more profits for business in Newark. But the new Board of Trade, launched during the week I visited Newark, took a decidedly higher view of its social responsibility. It expressed the revolt from past lawlessness and the desire to make more of its splendid opportunities. In a week's time, so great was the enthusiasm that nearly 600 citizens—the best in the town—were enrolled in membership, and committees were appointed to deal with the various problems which now confront them. They are taking up the real social problems—streets, pavements, city hospitals and a library, children's playgrounds, schools, and, above all, law enforcement, of better legislation, of more economical and more business-like administration.

"The new mayor, Mayor Ankele, is being supported and advised, not by the worst element in town, but by the best men of both parties, and he is making an earnest effort to enforce the law.

"But in this new and strong co-operation of the thoughtful men of Newark, there is a great promise of better things for the city—a stronger civic spirit, which in itself will not only make the town a better place to live in but will attract business and promote wholesome growth and the city in the future cannot fail to go forward swiftly and surely."

We have reviewed this timely article thus at length simply to enable our readers to get a glimpse at the real saloon problem and help to unite in a constructive effort for the promotion of the real abiding interests and welfare of our city, without waiting for an explosion, which not only shocked Newark, but shocked the state of Ohio and the country at large as well. It will take Newark a good many days to recover from that shock; yes, a good many years. It has gotten a lot of very bad advertising, but is now getting a lot of very good advertising. It has shown that it has within itself the inherent strength to redeem itself.

The chief danger which confronts Ypsilanti is the chief danger which confronts many another city with bright promises ahead, if they would but realize upon those promises. And that danger is indifference. That danger is the refusal to investigate, the refusal to believe that there are the same evil influences, differing in degree perhaps, but at work undermining the real constructive possibilities for growth of our city. We believe it to be municipal suicide as a policy for us to wait until an explosion takes place before we jolt ourselves into a recognition of the situation as it is.

We do not know what the history of law enforcement of our entire city is in the more distant years gone by, except as we have been told about it; but we do know something about it since coming to Ypsilanti to live—during the past ten years for example. We did not have to live in our city long to discover that the laws intended to govern the saloons and to prohibit gambling were not enforced in Ypsilanti. There seemed to be no serious effort at enforcement.

About as far back as ten years ago, a citizen was asked to give an address in 'one of our public parks on the Fourth of July. This citizen took occasion to criticize the officials of the city whose sworn duty it was to enforce the law for not doing what their oath of office required them to do. That citizen was waited upon shortly after making that address by one of the members of the police force and subjected to about all of the insult and abuse and efforts at intimidation which any friend of the liquor and gambling interests could think of.

One of the gamblers of the city met this citizen on the street shortly after and made the remark, 'If you want to live happily in this city with your family, don't you interfere with my game.' The same gambler followed the same citizen home on a bad rainy night from town and, as this citizen was going into his home, remarked with an oath, 'We'll get you yet.' The same gambler attempted to intimidate members of the family of this same citizen.

This same citizen, we understand, has been the frequent recipient of anonymous letters and insulting souvenir postal cards in the same strangely familiar handwriting.

Why all this walling and gnashing of teeth if these selfish, money-grabbing interests are doing nothing which the law denies them the right to do? There has been permitted to exist and to run in open defiance of the law a notorious gambling joint in Ypsilanti. Has there ever been any effort whatever on the part of the police commissioners, or the mayor, or the police officers, or the council to have this disgrace removed from our midst?

When has there been an arrest of a saloon-keeper for violating the law? There has been numerous arrests for drunkenness. When has there been any serious attempt on the part of the justice for instance to ascertain under oath from the arrested the source from which he received the liquor to make him drunk and a charge upon the community?

During the past ten years the law-breaking by the saloons and gambling interests became so open and notorious as to call forth a public indignation meeting, which filled the Methodist church to overflowing. One of the Normal professors made an address at that meeting. In Ypsilanti's local court on the following day a county official, a deputy sheriff, was heard storming about the courtroom and threatening to have this professor removed from the State Normal College faculty if he didn't keep his mouth shut. This same deputy sheriff had been promoted to be such after he, as a police officer in Ypsilanti, had permitted the law to be repeatedly violated by the saloon-keepers and gamblers.

We understand one of our citizens entered one of the saloons of our main streets not very many months ago to see what was going on there. Gambling was in full play, and we understand this citizen was summarily fired out of this saloon, and an ex-deputy sheriff at least was in witnessing the game.

On another occasion our citizens will recall that the violations of law by the saloons and gambling interests in Ypsilanti were so notorious as to call forth a futile effort of citizens of Ann Arbor to get the law enforced; first, by the local police officials; and second, by the county sheriff's office. But without avail.

Have you heard of a single arrest being made as a result of all that notorious lawlessness? On one or two occasions, students from Ann Arbor, and possibly our own city as well, came down and became riotously drunk in Ypsilanti and sang their college songs and repeated their college yells all through the early hours of the night and after hours and disgraced themselves and the University of Michigan and the City of Ypsilanti. The violation of the law was so open and notorious that blind, drunken porters ought to have been able to have seen it. Was anybody apprehended for the offense? Was there a complaint made, or an arrest made by any of our police force as a result of that violation which certainly cannot be charged to a lack of knowledge of the existence of the violation?

And then some hoboes from Detroit came out to Ypsilanti deliberately to do a burglary stunt and came, according to their statements, because they knew (one of them at least from having lived in Ypsilanti) that it was an "easy" town. The attempted burglary resulted in murder of the first degree, and of an innocent private citizen, in his efforts to enforce the law. Where were the police? One was charged at the time with being too drunk at the time in one of the places where liquor is sold in Ypsilanti to perform his duty. This policeman has been continued on the force.

The other policemen who have permitted the gambling dens to disgrace the city have been continued on the force. The same police commissioners have been returned after they have permitted this sort of disgrace to go on.

We have been compelled repeatedly to appeal to the governor of the state and to the prosecuting attorney to get anything like a semblance of law enforcement for the more notorious cases of lawbreaking in our city. The governor, we understand, has found it difficult to get our sheriffs' offices into action in any line of law enforcement.

So it is apparent that, whether it is a county officer or a local officer, every law-abiding citizen has an interest in seeing that the county officer or that local officer is one who can be relied upon to do his duty in maintaining the law in its integrity as it stands upon the statute book.

We cite these instances to show there are elements at work which are mowing towards the crust, that have already given us at least a number of miniature explosions.

Is it not our plain duty then as citizens to lay aside all partisanship and see to it, so far as is possible now, to begin in the April election a constructive policy all along the line for Ypsilanti and Washtenaw by electing so far as possible only such men to office as are known to be voluntarily in favor of co-operation to that end.

NO REASON FOR IT.

When Ypsilanti Citizens Show the Certain Way Out.

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of diabetes of any kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that they can be cured. Read what an Ypsilanti citizen says:

Charles Fletcher, 415 W. Congress St., Ypsilanti, Mich., says: "As the result of kidney trouble, my health became much run down. I was bothered a great deal by pains in the small of my back and kidney's and I attributed my complaint to constant riding on the wagon. When I was on my feet I did not notice the trouble so much. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and highly colored. Reading about Doan's Kidney Pills I was led to procure a box at Wehmann-Matthews Co.'s Drug Store and begin their use. I was careful to follow the directions closely and I received relief in a short time. Since then I have been in the best of health."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

STRICT LETTER OF THE LAW

Young Woman Kept Within the Statutes When Her Attention Was Called to Them.

He was a dapper young conductor, his uniform was newly pressed, his mustache curled to perfection and he evidently was impressed with the importance of the position he held. He also thought that he knew a thing or two and wished others to be aware of the fact.

From Market street to Girard avenue he kept up a steady flow of talk on one subject or another in a tone that could be heard almost to the other end of the car.

At Girard avenue six young women, all in the liveliest spirits and out for an afternoon's fun, boarded the car. They were seated close together and the usual discussion as to who should pay the fares followed. One of the girls opened her purse and showed it to the other girls with the remark: "Let me pay. I want to get rid of some of these pennies."

The purse was full of them and her companions consented.

She counted out thirty of them and handed them to the conductor.

That dapper individual drew his hand back with the words:

"Excuse me, madam, don't you know that by law I am not compelled to accept more than 25 cents in pennies in payment of any debt?"

"I beg your pardon," said the girl, as all the passengers turned to look at her, and the conductor threw out his chest. She then counted the pennies into lots of five, handed each lot to a companion and said, "Here, girls, pay your own fares."

The conductor's face turned crimson as a laugh went round the car.—Philadelphia Times.

One of the most enjoyable events of the social season which is drawing to a close was a bonfire party, given by Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Moore last Saturday evening in their orchard. There were about twenty, old and young as years go, but all young as the old-time sport progressed. While they piled on the brush and stirred the fire to get the highest blaze, they roasted frankfurts on pointed sticks, sitting around the fire and helped themselves to the well-filled hamper of bread and butter. Ah! how this carries one back to childhood days, when the neighbors would all turn out for a logging bee and the children could pile on the brush and watch the grotesque figures in the fire-light, chopping. Ah! of all the beautiful pictures that hang on memory's wall, that of the fire-lit chopping seemeth the best of all.

Natura Automatic Mediating Dilator

For Relief of Piles, Constipation, Nervousness

This appliance is admitted by those competent to judge to be the greatest advance made in years in the successful treatment of Rectal trouble. It combines effectively the principles of dilation and medication. The dilator causes no discomfort; on the other hand, it supports the muscles in such a way that it causes great relief. The healing ointment secreted by the dilator is applied directly to the affected parts, and removes all inflammation and soreness.

Those who suffer from chronic constipation and the resulting nervousness may obtain quick and permanent relief by using the NATURA DILATOR.

If you have found it necessary to resort to drugs for this complaint, try the Natura treatment, and experience the delightful results obtained.

HAIR DROPS OUT

Many People Have a Simple Way of Stopping It.

It was Dr. Sangerbund, of Paris, who first discovered that dandruff and falling hair were caused by microbes. And now that Parisian Sage, the remedy that kills the dandruff germ is sold in every town in America, the clean people of this country have awakened to the fact that dandruff is unnecessary; that falling hair and itching scalp can be quickly stopped, and that people who use Parisian Sage will never grow bald.

To every reader of the Ypsilanti Daily Press who wishes to eradicate disgusting dandruff, stop falling hair, and have an immaculately clean scalp, free from itchiness, we make this offer:

Duane Spalsbury will return your money, without red tape, if Parisian Sage does not banish dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks.

Parisian Sage is sold by Duane Spalsbury and druggists everywhere or 50 cents a large bottle. It is an ideal, daintily perfumed hair dressing, free from grease and stickiness, and will cause hair to grow lustrous and luxuriant. Mail orders filled, charges prepaid, by Giroux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Cotton Production in China.

Most of the cotton produced in China is grown on small farms of five to seven acres. The whole family engages in the cultivating and works as many as 12 hours a day.

When a medicine must be given to young children it should be pleasant to take. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is made from loaf sugar, and the roots used in its preparation give it a flavor similar to maple syrup, making it pleasant to take. It has no superior for colds, croup and whooping cough. For sale by Frank Smith, druggist.

William McDermott (R) Fifth Ward: "I would like to see the people vote on it. I think it is put too much on the aldermen."

John Engel (P) Fifth Ward: "I am not any nominee. You might as well try to burn snow balls in a stove as elect a prohibition alderman in the fifth ward. In the first place I am not a 'prohibition,' though I think that way."
